

Canadian Farmers Rejoice as CRA Assessment is Overturned

published 09/12/2018

Ritchie v. The Queen, 2018 TCC 113, was a lead case for hundreds of farmers across the Canadian Prairies. Jeff Pniowsky of Thompson Dorfman Sweatman LLP successfully argued that the CRA's assessment of the taxpayers was unjustified and incorrect. Mr. Pniowsky established to the Court that an early signing bonus paid to the taxpayers in respect of easements granted for the installation of pipelines on their lands gave rise to a capital gain and not, as the CRA insisted, business income. The decision will result in a reduction of over $20 million in taxable income for Canadian taxpayers.

DISCLAIMER: This article is presented for informational purposes only. The content does not constitute legal advice or solicitation and does not create a solicitor client relationship. The views expressed are solely the authors' and should not be attributed to any other party, including Thompson Dorfman Sweatman LLP (TDS), its affiliate companies or its clients. The authors make no guarantees regarding the accuracy or adequacy of the information contained herein or linked to via this article. The authors are not able to provide free legal advice. If you are seeking advice on specific matters, please contact Keith LaBossiere, CEO & Managing Partner at kdl@tdslaw.com, or 204.934.2587. Please be aware that any unsolicited information sent to the author(s) cannot be considered to be solicitor-client privileged.

While care is taken to ensure the accuracy for the purposes stated, before relying upon these articles, you should seek and be guided by legal advice based on your specific circumstances. We would be pleased to provide you with our assistance on any of the issues raised in these articles.