Retirement of Ross Nugent

published 06/15/2012

Ross Nugent retired from Thompson Dorfman Sweatman LLP as of March 31, 2012 after having practised law for more than 60 years. He joined the firm in 1968 following 8 years of service with the City of Winnipeg as its Deputy Solicitor. His practice focused primarily on the development and valuation of commercial real property and on municipal planning and expropriation. Mr. Nugent appeared in the courts at all levels, including the Supreme Court of Canada in a landmark case relating to the municipal assessment of a number of properties in the City of Winnipeg. In 1983, the Land Value Appraisal Commission went on record publicly describing him as "the most eminent expropriation compensation counsel in Manitoba." We wish him all the best in his well-deserved retirement.

DISCLAIMER: This article is presented for informational purposes only. The content does not constitute legal advice or solicitation and does not create a solicitor client relationship. The views expressed are solely the authors' and should not be attributed to any other party, including Thompson Dorfman Sweatman LLP (TDS), its affiliate companies or its clients. The authors make no guarantees regarding the accuracy or adequacy of the information contained herein or linked to via this article. The authors are not able to provide free legal advice. If you are seeking advice on specific matters, please contact Keith LaBossiere, CEO & Managing Partner at kdl@tdslaw.com, or 204.934.2587. Please be aware that any unsolicited information sent to the author(s) cannot be considered to be solicitor-client privileged.

While care is taken to ensure the accuracy for the purposes stated, before relying upon these articles, you should seek and be guided by legal advice based on your specific circumstances. We would be pleased to provide you with our assistance on any of the issues raised in these articles.